German Exhibit

In the early 1700's you would see this in the center of the village. What is this and what important service does it provide?

During harvesting time, farmers would use this to separate the grain from the plant chaff. What is this and how do you use it?

This is called a Haussegen. To find out what this is, ask the lady of the house.

This is a very important tool for processing the flax plant. Do you know what it is called? See if you can find out what they do with flax!
